

THE FPLQ BECOMES LES PRODUCTEURS DE LAIT DU QUÉBEC

During the Annual General Meeting of the Fédération des producteurs de lait du Québec (FPLQ), Quebec milk producers founded the new organization that will represent them. As a result, on May 1, Les Producteurs de lait du Québec becomes the administrator of the Joint Plan (1980) for Quebec's milk producers and the organization that will speak for the some 12,000 milk producers and 6,000 dairy farms in the province.

In the interest of lightening the administrative load and ensuring consistency with the joint provincial milk marketing plan, milk producers decided to group all of their activities within one single legal entity.

Les Producteurs de lait du Québec will maintain regional groups with the same territories until early 2015, when they will be adjusted to match those of the Union des producteurs agricoles (UPA).

We have attached a guide on how to use the name Les Producteurs de lait du Québec and the names of the regional groups.
